Inappropriate. Confessional. Illuminating.

Welcome to AGONY UNCLES – where some of Australia’s funniest and wisest men put their reputations on the line to tell the brutally honest, and often comical, truth about what it’s really like to be single, cohabitate, marry, divorce and then be single again in the 21st century.

For male viewers, the Uncles will guide you through the cycle of love and beyond, and reassure you that you’re not alone. For the women, it’s a chance to hear what’s said inside the locker room. If you want to know how men think – switch on and watch the blind as they lead the blind eloquently through the murky path of passion and beyond.

Each episode covers several burning issues from picking up to breaking up. If you’ve traversed the border between dating and relationship and are feeling a bit jittery, it’s ok, the Uncles are here to help. They’ll answer the big questions, such as how to impress their mum, how to know if you’re really in love, do your friends like your girlfriend and how would you know if they didn’t? There’s also that great philosophical quandary – when should you lie to your partner? And is withholding certain information a lie or sound relationship practice?

AGONY UNCLES is a comedy series that charts the universal do’s and don’ts of picking-up, falling in love, getting your heart broken, losing a house, and hopping straight back on the horse.
